1. A local resident stated in late May 1950 that intensive construction work was being done at the Graitschen (M 52/J 87) airfield area. Soviet soldiers allegedly built several bunkers and laid telephone lines.
2. The former emergency landing field at Rockau (M 51/J 87), which had been farmed in 1945, was being reconditioned as an airfield in early June 1950. *

* [REDACTED] comment. The airfield was about 800x900 meters at the end of the war. It has not been used by Soviet Air Force units. No reports have been received on reconditioning work being done at other former airfields which have been farmed.
